

Smarter Email Management For Businesses That Want

Organization-Wide Insights, Lower Human Risk, and Decision-Ready Value From Their Comms

HR wants a unified way to track employee performance and company culture across the business.

CX wants to follow the customer escalation path to pinpoint common attrition points.

Offboarding is inevitable, and management wants to know which employees said what and to whom during this sensitive period.

Without looking over anyone's shoulder. And without involving IT. (Some of these things are need-to-know, you know?)

So, what's a growing business to do?

- ✓ Purchase cumbersome, outdated "solutions" that promise the world.
"At least they archive, and I'll always have access to my emails."
(Well, sure. But what's access if you can't effortlessly gain insights from it?)
- ✓ Realize the tools are difficult to use, leading to endless frustration and IT requests
- ✓ Grapple for answers from passive vendors that don't support business agility (or you, evidently.)
- ✓ Grapple for answers from passive vendors that don't support business agility (or you, evidently.)
- ✓ Watch clients churn and reputations burn due to avoidable lags
- ✓ Lose time, money, and energy, and risk legal exposure from flawed archiving
...Forever, because email is a critical part of your communication pipeline.

We don't know about you, but we think it's time to write a different story.
